Out in the garden

In March the temperatures start to cool, it's time to preserve and store the harvests from your fruit and vegetables.

Save and store seed from your best vegetables to sow the following year.

Sow directly into the garden broad beans, peas, coriander, lettuce, parsnip, radish, rocket, spinach, pak choy, carrots, beetroot and silverbeet.

Add lots of organic matter like compost, manure, general fertiliser and/or blood and bone and work into the soil before planting seedlings.

Autumn is the best season for planting new trees and shrubs. The soil is still warm and there is usually more rainfall, they will then establish their roots over the winter months.

Lawns will also establish well if sown and watered regularly.
